Acknowledgements

We are grateful to the following individuals for their valuable contributions to the development of this digital module:

Name	Title	Role	Email Address
Nurun Nahar	Assistant Teaching Professor	Project Lead, Research and Content Producer	n.nahrar@bolton.ac.uk
David Howard	Academic Skills Team Leader	Research and Content Producer	d.howard@bolton.ac.uk
Prof. Paul Hollins	Professor of Cultural Research and Knowledge Exchange	Research and Strategic Adviser	P.A.Hollins@bolton.ac.uk
Graeme Prescott	E-Learning	Digital Content Developer	g.prescott@bolton.ac.uk
Katar Akeren	Student	Content Producer	N/a
Emmanuel Ngele	Student	Content Producer	N/a
Jo Hornby	Head of Quality Transformation	Reviewer	j.hornby@bolton.ac.uk
Luke Evans	Academic Skills Coordinator	Reviewer	l.evans@bolton.ac.uk
Sinead English	Academic Liaison Team Leader	Reviewer	s.english@bolton.ac.uk
*Mike Sharples	Emeritus Professor of Educational Technology at The Open University, UK	Reviewer	N/a

We would also like to thank Business and Nursing Focus Groups, together with staff who provided their feedback via an anonymised survey.

*Mike Sharples

Mike Sharples is Emeritus Professor of Educational Technology at The Open University, UK. He gained a PhD from the Department of Artificial Intelligence, University of Edinburgh. His expertise involves design of new technologies and environments for learning at scale. As Academic Lead for FutureLearn.com he led the pedagogy-informed design of its open learning platform. He now provides consultancy on policy and practice with generative AI for institutions worldwide including UNESCO, UNICEF, universities and companies. He is author of over 300 publications in educational technology, learning sciences, science education, human-centred design of personal technologies, artificial intelligence and cognitive science. His recent books are: His recent books are Practical Pedagogy: 40 New Ways to Teach and Learn and Story Machines: How Computers Have Become Creative Writers both published by Routledge, and An Introduction to Narrative Generators, published by Oxford University Press.